HOW TO REACH THE EU PAVILION IN EXPO

The closest entry point to the EU pavilion is EST ROSERIO entry. Reaching the EU pavilion from roserio takes about 15 minutes walking. If you arrive from Roserio, once after the gates, turn left and walk for about 7 minutes until you reach the Cardo road, follow the road until the end heading towards the Tree of Life , the EU pavilion is just in front of the Italian Pavilion.

If you are coming by metro and thus arriving to OVEST FIORENZA entry, you can follow the direction signs indicating “expo”. However, the closest exit to the EU pavilion is at the opposite directions, so take your right and start walking out of the metro station to get out from the metro station. Once out, you should notice the Apulia Region Pavilion, from there you will walk for approx 20 minutes to reach the Cardo road (on your left) and spot the EU pavilion and the tree of life.

If you arrive by taxi or bus you will get to SUD MERLATA entry. From there the walking distance is of about 25 minutes and the directions to be followed are those of the Cardo Road and the tree of life.

If you arrive by train you will get to OVEST TRIULZA entry. This is about 30 minutes walking from the EU pavilion and we suggest to choose any other entrance.

Please consider that EXPO SPA 2015 offers its visitors the people mover service. People Mover makes 10 stops around the whole EXPO perimeter. The closest stop to the EU pavilion is the fifth one, the one marked in blue. The people mover has stops every 5 to 7 minutes and each shuttle has a max capacity of 28 people.

10 THINGS TO DO IN MILAN

1. Be inspired by The Last Supper

Leonardo da Vinci's The Last Supper is undoubtedly Milan's best-known attraction, but tickets are almost as hard to get hold of as front row seats for a Prada fashion show. Those lucky enough to enter the hallowed refectory (attached to the church of Santa Maria delle Grazie) get 15 minutes to examine the expressions of consternation, hostility and despair on the faces of the disciples, just as Jesus reveals his imminent betrayal. Thanks to Leonardo's experimental technique, the fresco is famously flaky – but that doesn't detract one iota from the experience of seeing it in the 'flesh'.

2. Take in the view from the Duomo roof

500 years in the making, the spiked gothic cathedral that is the Duomo has been compared to a wedding cake and a 'hedgehog' (D.H. Lawrence). Its imposing interior contains some magnificent treasures but, for a truly breathtaking experience, climb the 150 steps (or take the lift) to the roof. Here, visitors can admire some of the 3,600 statues and 135 spires, many carved from pink Candoglia marble – and get a closer view of the famous gilded copper 'Madonnina' atop the tallest spike. On a fine day, the view stretches far beyond the city to the snow-capped Alps.

3. Get some culture at the Teatro alla Scala

Typically Milanese, the discreet, neo-classical façade of Teatro alla Scala, the world's most famous opera house, belies its opulent interior – featuring acres of red velvet and gilded balconies. Tickets to world-class opera and ballet performances aren't as hard to get hold of as you'd think, if you're prepared to be flexible about seating. Look out for a superb programme of popular operas throughout 2015, under new musical director Riccardo Chailly.

4. Hop on (and have dinner) on a tram

Synonymous with the city and a piece of living history, Milan's original yellow and orange 1920s and 1950s trams have varnished wooden seats and iconic fluted glass lampshades. Today, the city's rolling stock also includes 1970s models and the new-fangled, dark green 'caterpillars' – but for a taste of the original version, hop aboard the number 1, taking in some of Milan's most symbolic monuments as you go. Alternatively, book an evening ride on ATMosfera, a vintage tram serving up dinner with wine, run by the ATM transport authority.

5. Visit some classic art galleries...

Thanks in part to Napoleon, who dumped much of his northern Italian loot here, the Pinacoteca di Brera contains one of the most important art collections in Italy. Treasures include the eerily realistic Dead Christ by Mantegna, and Supper at Emmaus by Caravaggio. Smaller but with works every bit as important, the Pinacoteca Ambrosiana houses The Musician, an early painting by Leonardo da Vinci, and a lock of Lucrezia Borgia's strawberry blonde hair.

6. ... But leave time for new collections too

Milan's oldest galleries may have been around for centuries; but these days they have rivals in the form of Museo del Novecento and Gallerie d'Italia – both inaugurated since 2010. As its name implies, the Museum of the Twentieth Century houses 20th-century Italian and international artworks, by everyone from Modigliani to Matisse. The free, bank-owned Gallerie d'Italia displays masterpieces by the likes of Canova and Hayez in a sumptuous series of frescoed palazzi, opposite La Scala opera house.

7. Shop in style at the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele

With its glass-and-iron dome, magnificent mosaics and marble floorways, the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele arcade is definitely one of the world's most glamorous (and oldest – it was built in 1867) shopping malls. Among its claims to fame is the planet's first-ever Prada store, here since 1913. Gucci, Louis Vuitton, Armani – and most recently, Versace – all have a presence, but most visitors come to spin their heels in the famous bull's testicles, part of a floor mosaic it's said to bring good luck.

8. Discover Michaelangelo's unfinished masterpiece

Its rounded turrets, spacious courtyards and secret passageways would be reason enough to visit this renaissance castle – but the Castello Sforzesco also happens to be home to one of the city's most precious, yet often overlooked, artworks: Michelangelo's final, uncompleted sculpture, the Pietà Rondanini. In 2015, the sculpture will be moved to a new, purpose-built display area at the castle and shouldn't be missed.

9. Get in with the in crowd at 10 Corso Como

Since its opening in 1990 in a rambling converted garage, the whimsical fashion and design emporium that is 10 Corso Como – with bookshop, café, restaurant, B&B and gallery – has become an essential port of call for anyone with the vaguest of interests in the fashion industry. Owned by former Vogue Italia editor Carla Sozzani, its interiors feature swirling, organic furnishings and monochrome abstract patterns that add up to a magical take on fashion land. Prices aren't for the faint-hearted – but you may uncover the occasionally affordable notebook or accessory: snap them up, if only to get hold of one of the shop's beautifully designed paper bags.

10. Find something precious in the Golden Rectangle

Purveying hot-off-the-catwalk clothes by the likes of Armani, Dolce & Gabbana, Prada and Versace, it's little wonder that Milan's upscale fashion shopping district is known as the Quadrilatero della Moda – the Rectangle of Gold. The merchandise at most of the area's shops is most definitely not for those on a budget, though you can always poke your noses into DMagazine Outlet, a discount fashion shop on via Manzoni, or simply enjoy a spot of window shopping, whilst clocking the well-dressed fauna that inhabits these style-conscious streets.
